INTERESTS PAY TO BE LET ALONE

President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton Attacks the Tariff System.

Toledo, O., Nov. 27.—Declaring a high protective tariff, if no longer a necessity, would be to the advantage of a privileged few, President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton university, before a large audience at the Valentine theatre tonight, said:

"The large corporations of the nation have gotten into the habit of paying to be let alone, claiming they have not the time to devote to legislation, and saying 'we are too busy to bother with these things; here is your money; now don't legislate at all.'"

"From that habit they have grown into the more serious one of paying to be helped, and every campaign they pour into the coffers of that party which is most likely to foster a high protective tariff their money, expecting that the first money to come back from that tariff will be theirs. There was a time when a high protective tariff was justified and when it was worth while to try the experiment, but we have passed that stage. There is never any legitimate arguments for a protective tariff except for the benefit of the nation, and not for the benefit of a special few."

"It is impossible to protect without creating a sense of privilege, and these interests have at last reached the stage where they say 'we like the allowance the government is giving us, and we do not want the gentlemen at Washington to change their minds.'"

President Wilson's address was delivered under the auspices of the Toledo chamber of commerce.

AN ADVOCATE OF TIN PLATE DUTY

Kern, who manufactures razors, asked for a specific duty on razors. The present duty averages 50 per cent ad valorem, but Mr. Freeland argued that a higher duty was necessary if the industry was to become profitable in the United States.

S. S. Eiland of Philadelphia asked for an increase of 10 per cent in the duty on ball bearings.

Dwight Divine of New York desired that the tariff on pocket knives be retained.

Increased duty on small sizes of chains and a reduction on large sizes was a request of H. F. Mattern of Lebanon, Pa., and Thomas T. Woodhouse of Trenton, N. J.

Representatives Nicholas Longworth indicated that he was against unnecessary protection. "The total imports on chains equal only $10,000 a year," he said. "You manufacture in this country $5,000,000 worth, and yet you want increased tariff."

Night Session.

At the night session A. H. Washburn of New York, representing importers of bronze powder, used for the gliding of wall paper, and other colors for the purpose, asked that the specific duty of 15 cents a pound on that article be changed to 20 cents ad valorem, as to favor the lower grades.

C. W. Jefferson of New York, representing an importer of mica, asked that the specific duty of 6 cents per pound on unmanufactured mica be abolished, leaving only the 20 per cent ad valorem duty.

F. W. Waver of Boston, a manufacturer, asked that only ad valorem duty be increased from 20 per cent to 40 per cent.

Vance Brown of Asheville, N. C., a manufacturer, and B. C. Grindstaff of Sylva, N. C., a manufacturer of domestic mica, asked for a modification on the tariff rates upward.

Arthur V. Davis of Pittsburgh, a manufacturer of aluminum, asked that the duties on alien aluminum be retained. The same rates on silverware as the present were asked for by Samuel Barber of the New England Manufacturing company.

Asking that the present duty of $30 on lead in ore be retained, C. E. Allen of Salt Lake City, representing mine owners in Utah, and Edward A. Rosier, speaking for the lead industry of southeastern Missouri, addressed the committee.

Milton L. Lieberman, speaking for the lead manufacturers, asked for a reduction on lead ore, and said that the manufacturers were willing to have the duty taken off of manufactured lead articles, provided they get their raw materials free of duty.

At 11:45 the committee adjourned until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

FIGURES OF STATE CANVASSING BOARD TELL STORY OF REPUBLICAN LANDSLIDE

Official election returns from every county in the state have now been canvassed by the state canvassing board, and the official returns on all of the state offices is given herewith.

The returns show a surprising Republican landslide in almost every county in the state for every office except for governor. They show that were it not for this landslide Jesse William Knight would have been governor of the state.

The vote shows an increase of about 25,000 over the vote of two years ago. Knight ran better than Powers two years ago, but Martineau fell behind Powers in almost every county. Taft did not get as large a plurality as did Roosevelt in 1904, and the returns from the different counties of the state show a falling off of the Republican presidential vote. There were nearly 4,000 voters who failed to indicate by their ballots their choice for president, while voting for the state ticket. These were practically all from Salt Lake county.

The vote on the amendments was something of a surprise. It was thought at first that all of the proposed constitutional amendments had been defeated, but the complete returns show that the first amendment providing for the taxation of mines by the state board of equalization carried, while the other two amendments were defeated. This amendment now becomes a part of the constitution after Jan. 1, without further legislation.

Judge W. M. McCarty received the most votes of any of the Republican state ticket, but his plurality over D. H. Robison, his Democratic opponent was larger than any other Democratic state candidate. The remainder of the ticket was led by Evan R. Owen for secretary of state and Joseph E. Caine for state treasurer.

AVOIDED A DECISION.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 27.—Unable, it is believed, to choose between his wife, with whom he had become reunited after a separation, and Miss Nora Action, a young woman of Elvondal, Ala., with whom it is believed he had become enamored during the time of separation, W. E. Kimball of New South Memphis jumped from the Memphis bridge and ended his life. His body was discovered today.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

Toledo, O., Nov. 27.—Joseph Majeski, a Russian, 29 years old, seemingly insane, was arrested here tonight on suspicion of being the man who twice fired at Rev. J. R. Fielding of Chicago, Oct. 13.

Majeski telephoned the police asking protection from priests, who he said, had formed a plot to hunt him down and kill him. He was arrested at the union station. He had two revolvers and over $200 in money.
